

SELFRIDGE AIR NATIONAL GUARD BASE

VISITORS GUIDE

WELCOME!

The men and women of Michigan National Guard's 127th Wing welcome you to Macomb County. No matter the season, you'll find boating, skiing, fishing, hiking, shopping, museums, music and sporting events within a short distance from where you are staying. The Guardsmen at Selfridge ANG Base have been a cornerstone of this diverse community which supports its military and will welcome you as well.

A powerhouse of air dominance and strategic agility—the 127th Wing operates both the A-10 Thunderbolt II and KC-135 Stratotanker flying missions. The 127th Wing stands as the only Air National Guard unit to host a military installation, with more than 1,400 elite Airmen and 45 mission partners, we defend the homeland and fuel global missions with unmatched versatility and readiness.

Our mission:
Together, we stand ready to answer the call.

Located 20 miles north of Detroit, situated on the shoreline of Lake St. Clair in Harrison Township, Selfridge is home to a variety of Department of Defense and Department of Homeland Security units, including the Air National Guard, Army, Border Patrol, Coast Guard, Customs and Border Protection, Marine Corps and Navy. Selfridge hosts five flying missions, including fixed and rotor wing aircraft.

In addition, groups of the 127th Wing report to Air Combat Command, Air Mobility Command and the National Guard Bureau. The 127th Wing effectively triples mission capability by utilizing a single cost-efficient mission support group dedicated to all commands and flying units.

Selfridge's airfield and facilities are constructed and maintained to a level that allows for expansion, improvement and future missions. This growth potential is excellent considering the Air Force and President of the United States announced two strategic basing decisions for the 127th Wing at Selfridge within a 16-month period. Selfridge will be the future home to the KC-46 Pegasus refueling and F-15EX Eagle II fighter missions.

Thank you and welcome to Selfridge Air National Guard Base and the 127th Wing.

Our Place in the DoD

ABOUT SELFRIDGE AIR NATIONAL GUARD BASE

Our origins date back to the dawn of aviation, when U.S. Army Lt. Thomas Selfridge, perished in 1908 while flying in a demonstration aircraft with Orville Wright, making him the first military casualty of flight.

In 1917, Henry B. Joy, president of the Packard Motor Company, leased his rural airstrip to Army for training in preparation for entry into World War I. On July 8, 1917, Lt. Byron Q. Jones made Selfridge's first military flight in a Curtiss JN-4 "Jenny."

During World War II, pilots and maintenance personnel of the famed Tuskegee Airmen, a unit comprised of African-American Airmen, trained here, leading the way toward the end of racial segregation in the military.

During the Cold War era, Nike missiles were stationed here to guard the industrial might of the Detroit region.

The 127th Wing flew F-16 Fighting Falcon patrol missions over the Great Lakes region within hours of the 9/11 terrorist attacks and maintained that 24-hour mission until 2008, when the Wing transitioned to the KC-135 Stratotanker and A-10 Thunderbolt II airframes.

TRAFFIC

LOCAL AREA TRAFFIC INFORMATION

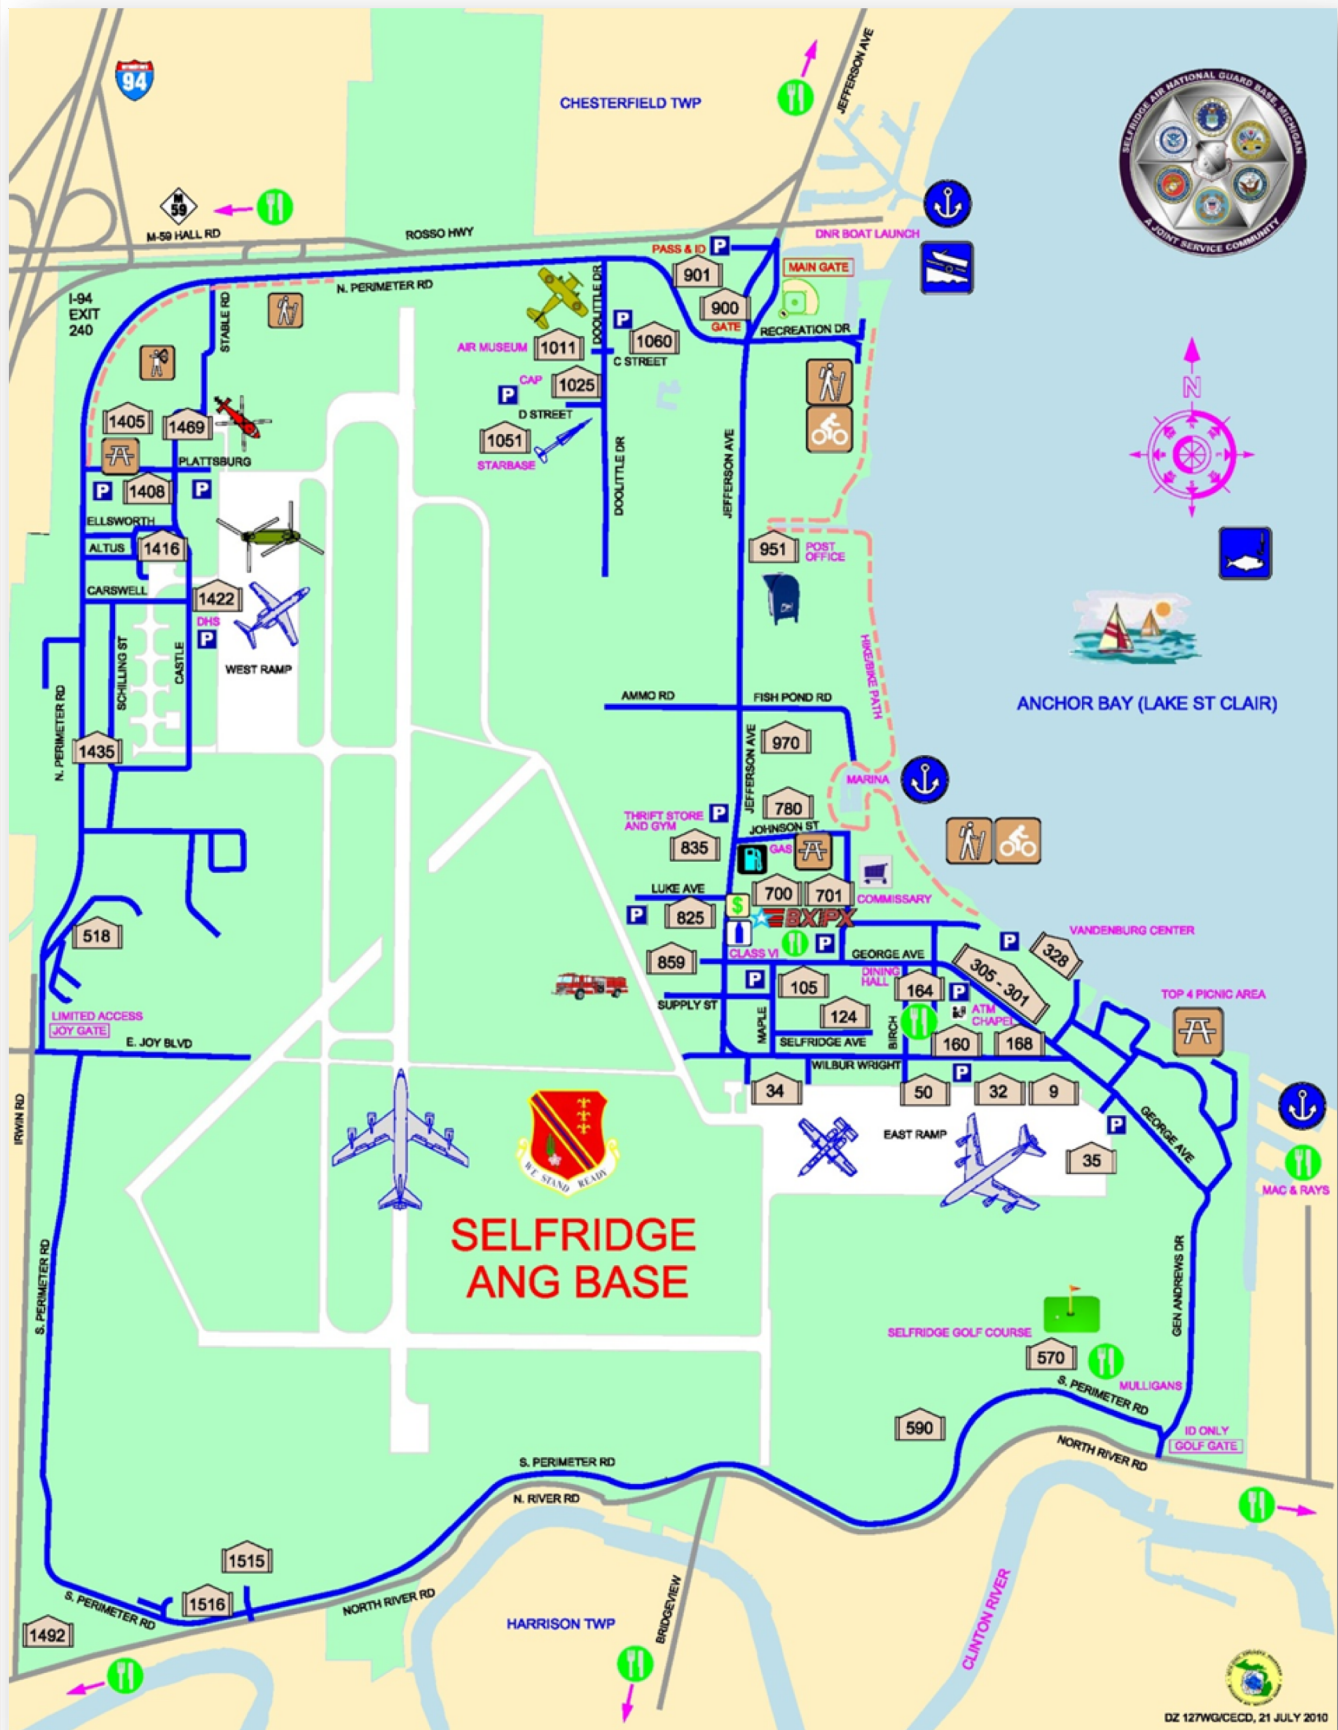

Michigan uses a traffic pattern uncommon in other parts of the U.S, known as the, "Michigan Left." On roads with a divided median, left turns are generally not permitted at the intersection. Instead, drivers must proceed through the intersection, make a U-turn and then make a right turn onto their intended crossroad.

"Michigan Left"

The red line indicates the proper traffic flow for making a left turn onto a crossroad from a divided road. The green line indicates the proper traffic flow for making a left turn onto a divided road from a crossroad. Intersections that have Michigan Lefts will be marked with a sign several hundred feet before the intersection, giving drivers time to move to the proper lane. When you are in a turnaround lane, you may make a left turn on a steady red light if oncoming traffic is clear, after coming to a complete stop. If you are going straight across from a turnaround lane, you must wait for a green light.
